

INSTITUTE OF INTERNATIONAL BANKING LAW & PRACTICE

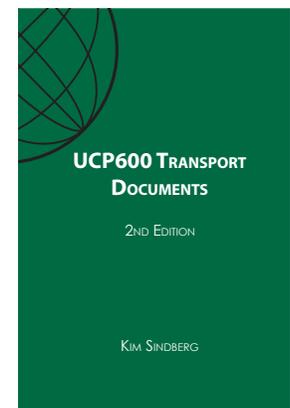

Goods are Always on the Move.

Shouldn't Your Knowledge of Transport Documents Keep Pace?

Back by popular demand, trade finance expert Kim Sindberg has fully re-written his "UCP 600 Transport Documents" book. The newly released Second Edition of "UCP 600 Transport Documents" takes into account ISBP 745, recent ICC Official Opinions, and significant technical changes to how transport documents are impacting practice, including:

- Definition of shipping company;
- The non-negotiable sea waybill was introduced to the ISBP;
- New practice in choosing between bill of lading (Article 20) and multimodal transport document (Article 19);
- The meaning of "Freight Forwarder's bill of lading is not acceptable";
- How to handle transport documents issued/signed by the "branch of the carrier";
- That IATA codes cannot be used to identify the carrier;
- What kind of on-board notation is required when the first leg of a multimodal transport document – as required by the documentary credit – is a sea leg;
- Whether or not a "delivery agent at port of discharge" must have its address at the port of discharge.

US$60

Purchase at www.iiblp.org

Contact us at info@iiblp.org